

AMC Comments

Subject: Anti Trust Revisions

Date: Friday, January 14, 2005 12:58p

From: George Crispin <George@rainsweet.com>

To: <comments@amc.gov>

In today's world, large multinational companies and huge retailers do not need to be protected from small manufacturers getting together to form stronger bargaining positions. Walmart, Costco, Kroger, Lowes, Home Depot, General Mills, Kraft, Heinz, Unilever, Nestle and similar large conglomerates have too much leverage over small manufacturers. Small manufacturers need more help not less help to level the playing field in negotiating prices with huge corporations.